L'exercice du changement peut et doit
passer par la pratique.

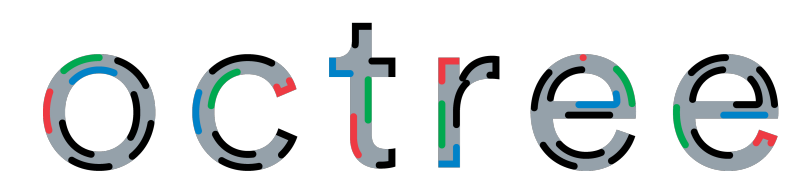

L'open-source est une solution,
à condition de participer.

Une démarche doit tout faire pour rester ouverte au changement.

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the GitHub repository page for 'decidim/decidim'. The browser's address bar shows 'github.com'. The page header includes navigation links like 'Why GitHub?', 'Enterprise', 'Explore', 'Marketplace', and 'Pricing', along with a search bar and 'Sign in'/'Sign up' buttons. The repository name 'decidim / decidim' is prominently displayed, with statistics for 44 watches, 500 stars, and 143 forks. Below this, there are tabs for 'Code', 'Issues 50', 'Pull requests 19', and 'Insights'. A large green banner encourages users to 'Join GitHub today' with a 'Sign up' button. The main content area describes the project as 'The participatory democracy framework. A generator and multiple gems made with Ruby on Rails' and provides a link to 'http://www.decidim.org'. It also features a list of tags: 'engine', 'decidim', 'democracy', 'community', 'open-data', 'government', 'gnu', and 'civic-tech'. A summary bar shows '3,001 commits', '44 branches', '78 releases', '54 contributors', and 'AGPL-3.0' license. At the bottom, there are buttons for 'Branch: master', 'New pull request', 'Find File', and 'Clone or download'. The commit history is visible, starting with a commit by 'aitorlb and oriolgual' and listing various folders like '.circleci', '.github', 'bin', 'config', 'd', and several 'decidim-*' sub-projects with their respective commit dates.
